Preliminary Description of “Apocalypse”:

- In popular terminology today, an “apocalypse” is a catastrophic event (e.g., nuclear holocaust).
- In biblical terminology, an “apocalypse” is not an event, but a “revelation” that is recorded in written form:
  - it is a piece of crisis literature that “reveals” truths about the past, present, and/or future in highly symbolic terms;
  - the revelation often comes in dreams or visions, and usually needs to be interpreted with the help of an angel;
  - it is usually intended to provide hope and encouragement for people in the midst of severe trials and tribulations.

  Caution 1: “The Apocalypse” is an alternate name (used esp. by Protestants) for the “Book of Revelation” in the NT.

  Caution 2: “The Little Apocalypse” or “The Apocalyptic Discourse” are names sometimes given to Mark 13 (and parallel texts Matt 24 and Luke 21), containing Jesus’ teachings about the future of Jerusalem and the end of the world.

“‘Apocalypse’ is a genre of revelatory literature with a narrative framework, in which a revelation is mediated by an otherworldly being to a human recipient, disclosing a transcendent reality with is both temporal, insofar as it envisages eschatological salvation, and spatial insofar as it involves another, supernatural world.”

Addition to the Definition, incorporating the purpose of the genre (from suggestions of Hellholm 1982 & Aune 1986):

“...intended to interpret the present, earthly circumstances in light of the supernatural world and of the future, and to influence both the understanding and the behavior of the audience by means of divine authority.”

The Book of Revelation: An Overview

The last book in the New Testament, often called “Revelation” or “The Revelation of John,” is more properly entitled “The Revelation of Jesus Christ to John.” It is also called “The Apocalypse,” but should not be called “Revelations” (not plural; it is a single unified message of God, told in a series of deepening narrative cycles).

The Greek word apokalypsis literally means “uncovering” or “revealing” some truth previously hidden. An “Apocalypse” in its original sense is not primarily an event (end of the world or another catastrophe), but is a literary genre, a style of writing that uses highly symbolic narratives to interpret a historical crisis and provide hope for a better future.

The Purpose of the Book of Revelation:

To encourage Christians to persevere in faith in the midst of tribulations

“patient endurance” (Gk hypomonē) & “to hold fast” (Gk kratein) & “to keep” (Gk tērein) – NRSV texts

1:9 – I, John, your brother who share with you in Jesus the persecution and the kingdom and the patient endurance, was on the island called Patmos because of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.

2:1-3 – “To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: These are the words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks among the seven golden lampstands: / I know your works, your toil and your patient endurance. I know that you cannot tolerate evildoers; you have tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and have found them to be false. / I also know that you are enduring patiently and bearing up for the sake of my name, and that you have not grown weary.”

2:13-16 – “I know where you are living, where Satan's throne is. Yet you are holding fast to my name, and you did not deny your faith in me even in the days of Antipas my witness, my faithful one, who was killed among you, where Satan lives. / But I have a few things against you: you have some there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the people of Israel, so that they would eat food sacrificed to idols and practice fornication. / So you also have some who hold to the teaching of the Nicolaitans.”

2:19 – “I know your works—your love, faith, service, and patient endurance. I know that your last works are greater than the first.”

2:25 – “…only hold fast to what you have until I come.”

3:10-11 – “Because you have kept my word of patient endurance, I will keep you from the hour of trial that is coming on the whole world to test the inhabitants of the earth. / I am coming soon, hold fast to what you have, so that no one may seize your crown.”

13:10 – “If you are to be taken captive, into captivity you go; if you kill with the sword, with the sword you must be killed. Here is a call for the endurance and faith of the saints.

14:12 – Here is a call for the endurance of the saints, those who keep the commandments of God and hold fast to the faith of Jesus.

22:7 – “See, I am coming soon! Blessed is the one who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”

“those who conquer” (Gk nikán) – NRSV texts

2:7 – Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To everyone who conquers, I will give permission to eat from the tree of life that is in the paradise of God.

2:11 – Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. Whoever conquers will not be harmed by the second death.

2:17 – Let anyone who has an ear listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To everyone who conquers I will give some of the hidden manna, and I will give a white stone, and on the white stone is written a new name that no one knows except the one who receives it.

2:26 – To everyone who conquers and continues to do my works to the end, I will give authority over the nations;

3:5 – If you conquer, you will be clothed like them in white robes, and I will not blot your name out of the book of life; I will confess your name before my Father and before his angels.

3:12 – If you conquer, I will make you a pillar in the temple of my God; you will never go out of it. I will write on you the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem that comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name.

3:21 – To the one who conquers I will give a place with me on my throne, just as I myself conquered and sat down with my Father on his throne.

5:5 – Then one of the elders said to me, “Do not weep. See, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals.”

6:2 – I looked, and there was a white horse! Its rider had a bow; a crown was given to him, and he came out conquering and to conquer.

11:7 – When they have finished their testimony, the beast that comes up from the bottomless pit will make war on them and conquer them and kill them,

12:11 – But they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they did not cling to life even in the face of death.

13:7 – Also it was allowed to make war on the saints and to conquer them. It was given authority over every tribe and people and language and nation,

15:2 – And I saw what appeared to be a sea of glass mixed with fire, and those who had conquered the beast and its image and the number of its name, standing beside the sea of glass with harps of God in their hands.

17:14 – they will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful.”

21:7 – Those who conquer will inherit these things, and I will be their God and they will be my children.

- The lamb receives seven-fold praise from myriads of angels: “Worthy is the Lamb that was slaughtered to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!” (5:12; similar seven-fold praise in 7:12).
- As the sixth seal is opened, seven groups of people flee: “Then the kings of the earth and the magnates and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and all slaves and free people, hid in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains…” (6:15)
- Seven beatitudes are scattered throughout the book (1:3; 14:13a; 16:15; 19:9a; 20:6; 22:7; 22:14).

666: Who or What Is the Beast?

The answer to this nearly 2000-year-old question depends on how you choose to interpret the Book of Revelation. Near the middle of this highly symbolic book are descriptions of several strange creatures:

- First, “a great red dragon, with seven heads and ten horns, and seven diadems on his heads”; it is described further after being defeated by Michael and his angels in a battle in heaven: “The great dragon was thrown down, that ancient serpent, who is called the Devil and Satan, the deceiver of the whole world--he was thrown down to the earth, and his angels were thrown down with him” (Rev 12:3-18).

- Second, “a beast rising out of the sea” having ten horns and seven heads; and on its horns were ten diadems, and on its heads were blasphemous names... [it] was like a leopard, its feet were like a bear’s, and its mouth was like a lion’s mouth. And the dragon gave it his power and his throne and great authority...” (Rev 13:1-10).

- Third, “another beast that rose out of the earth”; it had two horns like a lamb and it spoke like a dragon. It exercises all the authority of the first beast on its behalf, and it makes the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast...” (Rev 13:11-18).

At the end of the paragraph about this third beast, the author challenges the reader with an intriguing puzzle: “This calls for wisdom: let anyone with understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a person. Its number is six hundred sixty-six.” (13:18).

- To understand this text, one must know that ancient Hebrew (like Greek and other ancient languages) did not have a separate set of characters to indicate numbers, but simply used the letters of its alphabet to represent numbers. This fact provides the basis for the ancient practice of “gematria,” in which numerical equivalents of words and names are calculated (still a popular game today!).

There are several different ways of assigning numbers to the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet, but the system most commonly used is this:

- Hebrew letters and their values:
  - alef = 1; bet = 2; gimel = 3; dalet = 4; hey = 5; waw = 6; zayin = 7; chet = 8; tet = 9; yod = 10; kaf = 20; lamed = 30; mem = 40; nun = 50; samek = 60; ayin = 70; pey = 80; tsadeh = 90; qof = 100; resh = 200; shin = 300; taw = 400.

- The basic idea is that every word (and every name) has a number associated with it, obtained by adding up the numerical equivalent of each letter in the word. So, every person has a number, the numerical value of his or her name. For example, “David” has a value of 14 in Hebrew (it is written dalet-waw-dalet, which is 4+6+4); see Matt 1:17.

- The same game can be played in any language by assigning numerical values to each letter of the alphabet: for example, a = 1, b = 2, c = 3, etc. However, the results you want to get may determine which numerical system you choose; for example, you can get HITLER = 666 if you choose a system in which a=100, b=101, c=102, etc.

So, who is the person whose number is 666?

Throughout history, attempts have been made to identify 666 with many famous people (usually one’s enemies)!

- Since the Reformation (and still today!), some Protestants have tried to connect 666 with the Pope, either with the “Roman Pontiff” in general or with a specific Pope in particular. On the other hand, some Catholics used to see a link between the apocalyptic beast and Martin Luther.

- Some Democrats have tried to associate the beast with Ronald Reagan or George W. Bush, while some Republicans might argue it was John F. Kennedy or Bill Clinton.

Most biblical historians agree that the Book of Revelation is simply referring to the Roman Emperor NERO, the most “beastly” ruler of the first Christian Century:

- The Hebrew equivalent of “Emperor Nero” could be written NRWN QSR (nun-resh-waw-nun qof-samek-resh); thus, the first word is 50+200+6+50, the second word is 100+60+200, and the total is no surprise!

- For more extensive discussion of the first-century Roman Empire and the historical references behind the dragon, the sea beast, and the land beast in Rev 12–13, see any good biblical commentary on the Book of Revelation.

Does Rev 13:18 really contain the number 666, or was it originally 616?

- Most ancient Greek manuscripts of the NT read “six hundred sixty-six” in Rev 13:18; but some ancient manuscripts contain the alternate reading “six hundred sixteen” (616), which might well be the older or original reading of this text.
  - A branch of biblical scholarship called “textual” criticism deals with such issues, trying to determine which variant was more likely the original reading. If the text originally said 666, how and why was it changed to 616 in later manuscripts? Or vice-versa, if the original text was 616, how and why was it later changed to 666?
  - The proposal that 616 is the older and better reading of Rev 13:18 was recently bolstered by some newly published Oxyrhynchus Papyri. Moreover, the change from “616” to “666” can easily be explained, especially if the historical reference was originally to Emperor Nero.
    - The final letter “nun” is optional in the Hebrew spelling of Nero. So NRW QSR = 50+200+6+100+60+200 = 616.
    - If 616 was the original reading, it is easy to see how the text of Rev 13:8 would later have been changed to 666, due to its more highly symbolic value (since 6 represents incompleteness, in contrast to 7 representing completion, the triple 666 represents evil even more obviously than 616.)
